SUMMARY

A recent graduate from Los Angeles, CA with a bachelor's degree in Data Science. I am currently a candidate at Willamette University pursuing a master's degree in Data Science through the 3+1 program. My academic interests span public policy, social justice, and education, where I aim to apply my data analysis skills to effect positive change. Passionate about leveraging data science for societal impact, I am eager to embark on projects that address critical social issues.
